

Foundation Focus

Fall 2016

Invest in nurses. See the difference in health care.

Four new CNF scholarships this year!

It's amazing how your gift is helping to provide excellence in nursing care!

Canadian Nurses Foundation

"Upon graduating from the doctoral program, I would like to pursue research, teaching and have an impact on practice related to nursing informatics and mental health in Canada."

Gillian Strudwick,
Dr. Kathryn J. Hannah
Nursing Informatics Award

"Primary care nursing is my passion. Primary care nurses are optimally situated to provide comprehensive care with an aim of prevention to reduce the burden on the health system."

Chrissy Rowan,
Manitoba Registered
Nurses Centennial
Legacy Scholarship

"This generous award will enable me to contribute to the advancement of knowledge and practice in child mental health."

Marjorie Montreuil,
Lundbeck Canada
Mental Health Nursing
Fund award

"I've worked on a HIV hospital ward, HIV primary care clinic, emergency department, and a UBC research study aiming to support women healing from experiences of violence by incorporating traditional indigenous teachings - all having sparked a drive to learn more from these communities and work together for greater equity and wellness."

Jennifer Woo,
Beverly and John Carl Scholarship

NURSES ACROSS CANADA - and their patients and communities - thank YOU!

You have helped over 100 nurses through these six scholarships, and so many more!

We are so grateful for your generosity!

Thanks to YOU

Jillian is helping to ensure that you have access to health care when
and where you need it!

Over the past 20 years, together with NANB, you have helped a total of 24 New Brunswick nurses pursue their dreams! And now your generosity has doubled – thanks to matching funds from the New Brunswick provincial government, recently announced at the CNF Biennial Reception in Saint John, NB.

Biennial reception: l-r Christine Rieck Buckley (CNF), Victor Boudreau (Minister of Health, NB), Rachel Maillet Bard (CNF)

Jillian Ring, 2015-2016
Nurses Association of New Brunswick
Award recipient

As a nurse practitioner, Jillian is working towards improving and integrating the role in primary health care across Canada.

Because of your generosity, in 2017, another gifted New Brunswick nurse will receive the new NANB/TD Insurance Meloche Monnex Centennial Doctoral Scholarship.

Did you know... that the NP role in Canada began with nurses providing care in rural and remote areas? The first education program for NPs actually prepared nurses to work in nursing stations in remote areas of Northern Canada.

Congratulations to all CNF award recipients 2016-17!

Special thanks to the 2016 Merit Review Panel, who graciously donated their time and expertise to review the scholarship applications.

1981 Virginia Lindabury Award

(passionate nurse educator and former editor of Canadian Nurse)

35 years: 34 nurses

Patricia Julian “I have always wanted an intellectually stimulating career that also improves other people’s lives. This dream, combined with my strong respect for seniors, led me to realize that I should become a gerontology nurse.”

1991 Judy Hill Memorial Award

(Judy Hill RN lost her life in a plane crash while serving her beloved northern community)

25 years: 29 nurses

Cedar McMechan “I am particularly interested in finding nursing opportunities to work with indigenous or other minority populations.”

Katie Koob “I believe nursing in Canada’s north would offer a unique opportunity to deepen my understanding of Canada’s indigenous peoples and their relevant health concerns.”

1991 Ginette Lemire Rodger Award

(Dr. Lemire Rodger is a renowned nursing leader both in Canada and globally)

25 years: 10 nurses

Delasi Essien “I am exploring compassion fatigue in nursing educators and faculty. There is a lot of research on compassion fatigue in other nursing specialties such as trauma care, oncology and palliative care, but little in the field of academia.”

2001 TD Meloche Monnex Award

15 years: 16 nurses

Sheila Boamah “I am passionate about global health issues and the importance of achieving equity in health for individuals on a local and international scale.”

2006 Nova Scotia Nurses Award

10 years: 10 nurses

Martha Paynter “My research interests include perinatal health of criminalized women in Atlantic Canada, access to reproductive health services, and human milk donation.”

2006 Sigma Theta Tau International Award

10 years: 10 nurses

Karen Campbell “Being able to focus on health and wellness to lower the need for hospitalizations and illness and address health disparities is incredibly rewarding.”

Message from the Executive Director

The heat of the summer months is winding down quickly but the fall brings with it the warmth and beauty of changing foliage and harvest. And, of course, thanks. The nurses you have supported this year are so thankful for your generosity and support in helping them achieve their goals and dreams. They could not do it without you! And CNF is now focusing its efforts on a very special group of nurses – those who support our indigenous communities. With the goal of raising One Million in One Year, together we can increase the number of indigenous nurses in Canada, and provide them with the education that is essential to improve the much-needed care these communities so deserve! My message: Support the Journey and help create Stronger Communities – Greater Knowledge!

Thank you and stay happy and healthy!
