Invest in nurses. See the difference in health care.

Nurses are your frontline health care

As Canada celebrates in 2017, CNF celebrates 150 years of diversity in nursing! Thanks to YOUR SUPPORT, nurses provide much needed care where and when it is needed.

“My experience made me see the value in scholarships – that it is important for them to know someone is interested in them! Having a scholarship in my name personalizes it, and allows me to meet my award recipient and see the impact of my support. People think it costs a fortune to support a scholarship, but it really doesn’t. I gave four smaller cheques each year. It made it manageable for me. If I can afford to fund a scholarship, so can you!”
Margaret Munro
Supporting Indigenous Nursing Education and Research

Indigenous nurses are often the FIRST and ONLY health care provider in these communities

YOU are helping more Indigenous nurses complete their studies and make impacts in their communities.

We are halfway there! Together we can meet our campaign goal of $1 million to fund 150 Indigenous Nurses in celebration of Canada’s 150th Birthday this year!

Educational scholarships

Canada needs more Indigenous nurses to provide culturally safe and improved health care in their communities

Research grants

Help Indigenous nurses excel at health care practices for Indigenous communities

Mentorship

Indigenous nurses serve as mentors and an inspiration for youth in their communities

Canada needs to improve the retention of Indigenous nurses in their communities

First Nations youth die by SUICIDE about five to six times more often than non-aboriginal youth
Danielle Bourque
CNF awarded Danielle the TD Aboriginal Nursing Fund Award in 2014 and 2015 and the Northern Award in 2016.

Isabelle Wallace
CNF awarded the TD Aboriginal Nursing Fund Scholarship to Isabelle in 2015, and the NANB CNA Centennial Award in 2016.

Sharlene Webkamigad
As the 2015 recipient of the research grant jointly funded by Alzheimer Society Research Program, Canadian Consortium for Neurodegeneration in Aging, and CNF, Sharlene is conducting research to improve the quality of life for Aboriginal people with dementia and their caregivers by addressing knowledge needs.

Launched at CNF’s Annual Nightingale Gala and at The Circle on Philanthropy and Aboriginal Peoples in Canada’s All My Relations Gathering.

Danielle, Isabelle, and Sharlene share their experiences and challenges on their journey to working in the nursing profession from the Indigenous perspective.

Message from the Executive Director

The trees are sprouting, the sun is shining, and CNF is embarking on its annual review of scholarship applications to help nurses and nursing students across the country advance their education. What an exciting time, and it is all thanks to each and every one of you! We are also working hard to reach our One Million in One Year campaign goal to help support Canada’s indigenous nurses – we’re halfway there! I encourage all of you to watch our campaign documentary “The Journey” to see and hear firsthand the commitment and strength of these nurses and the continuous challenges they face each and every day. We hope that you will help us reach our goal and thank you to all who have already made your pledge!

Wishing you a wonderful summer and stay happy and healthy!

Hope for Today, Tomorrow and for the Future

Hear how you can create YOUR Legacy!

Meet Margie Kennedy, PhD, RN, CPHIMS-CA, CNIO & Managing Partner, Clinical Informatics, Gevity Consulting Inc.

As a past President of the Nova Scotia Registered Nursing Foundation (NSRNF), I was incredibly impressed by the sheer scope of awards and support for nurses provided by CNF. It is so important to commit support for the profession, and a legacy gift is an easy, efficient way to contribute lasting support.”

Margie is a CNF past award recipient, and the Chair of the Dr. Kathryn J Hannah Nursing Informatics Scholarship Committee.

There are many other ways to build your long-lasting legacy. With your support, nurses can provide the best possible care for patients, families, and communities. You can make a difference in health care for years to come!
